

DAN LAMBERT
Northeast Bird Monitoring Coordinator
American Bird Conservancy

Dan Lambert joined ABC in 2006 after seven years as a Conservation Biologist at the Vermont Institute of Natural Science (VINS). At VINS, he built a regional program for monitoring mountain birds and studied the ecology of Bicknell's Thrush and Canada Warbler. Dan holds a B.A. in Environmental Education from Dartmouth College and an M.S. in Ecology from the University of Alberta. For his graduate thesis, Dan studied Ovenbird use of riparian buffer strips in an industrial forest. Dan works at a VINS office in Woodstock, Vermont and travels throughout the Northeast building tools and partnerships for coordinated bird monitoring.
