

Large Majorities Claim At Least
Some Knowledge About
Global Warming

Large Majorities Of Both Primary Electorates Claim At Least Some Knowledge About Global Warming

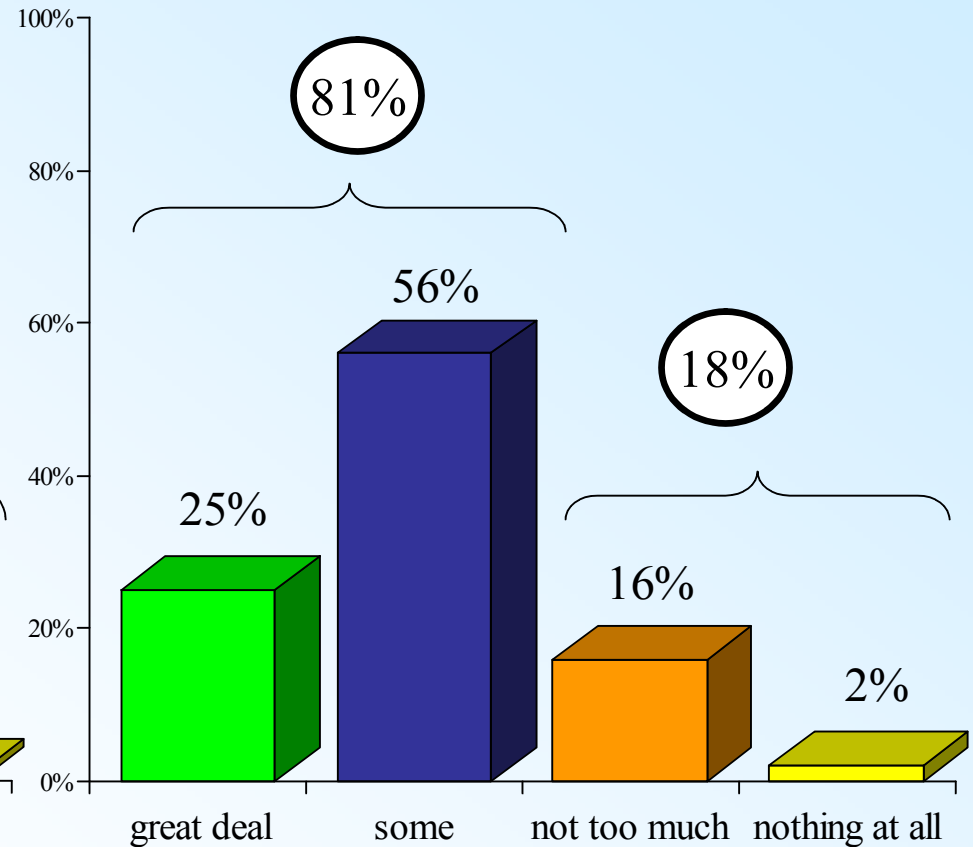

A Third Of Democrats And A Quarter Of Republicans Claim To Know A Great Deal

How much, if anything, do you happen to know about the issue of global warming?

Dem Primary Voters

GOP Primary Voters

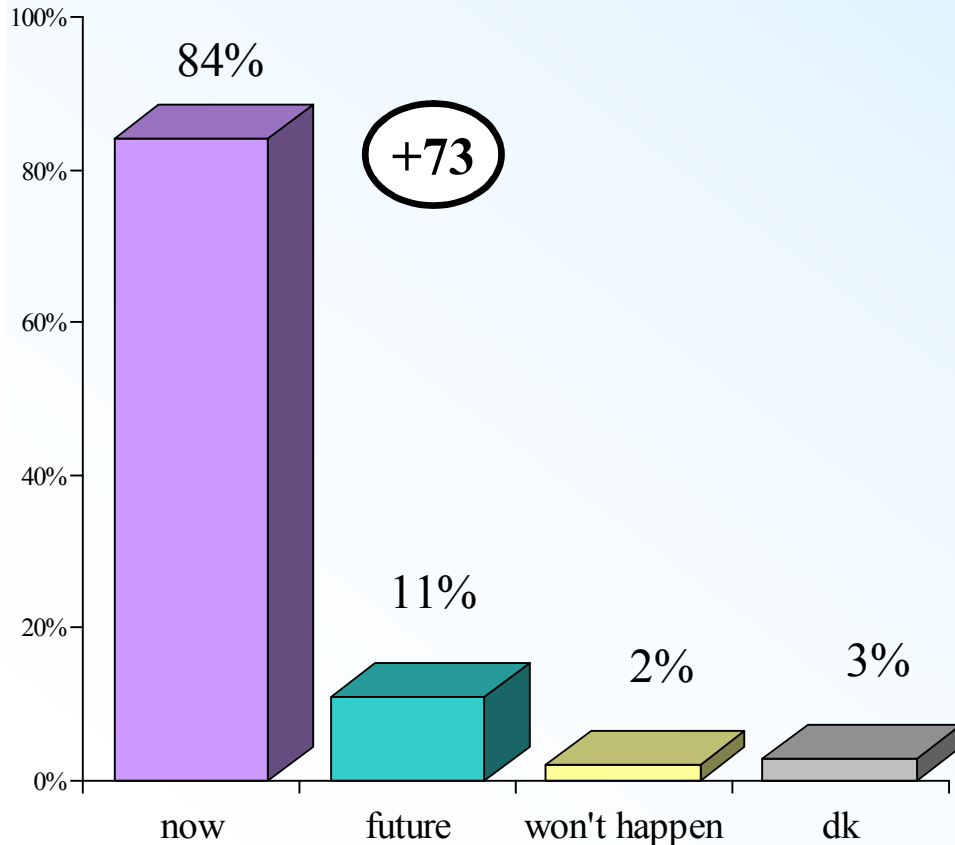

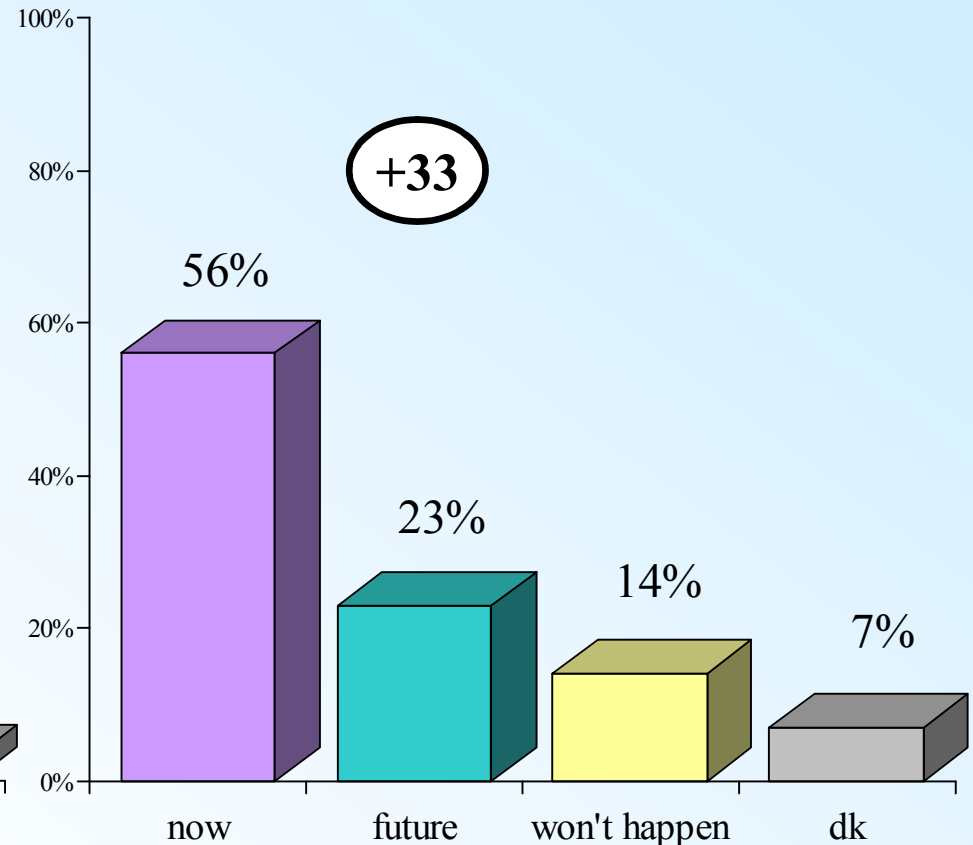

Majorities Of Both Primary Electorates Think Global Warming Is Happening Now, Though Republicans Are More Divided

Do you think that global warming is an environmental problem that is happening now, do you think that global warming will happen in the future, or do you think that global warming will not happen—or don't you have an opinion on this?

Dem Primary Voters

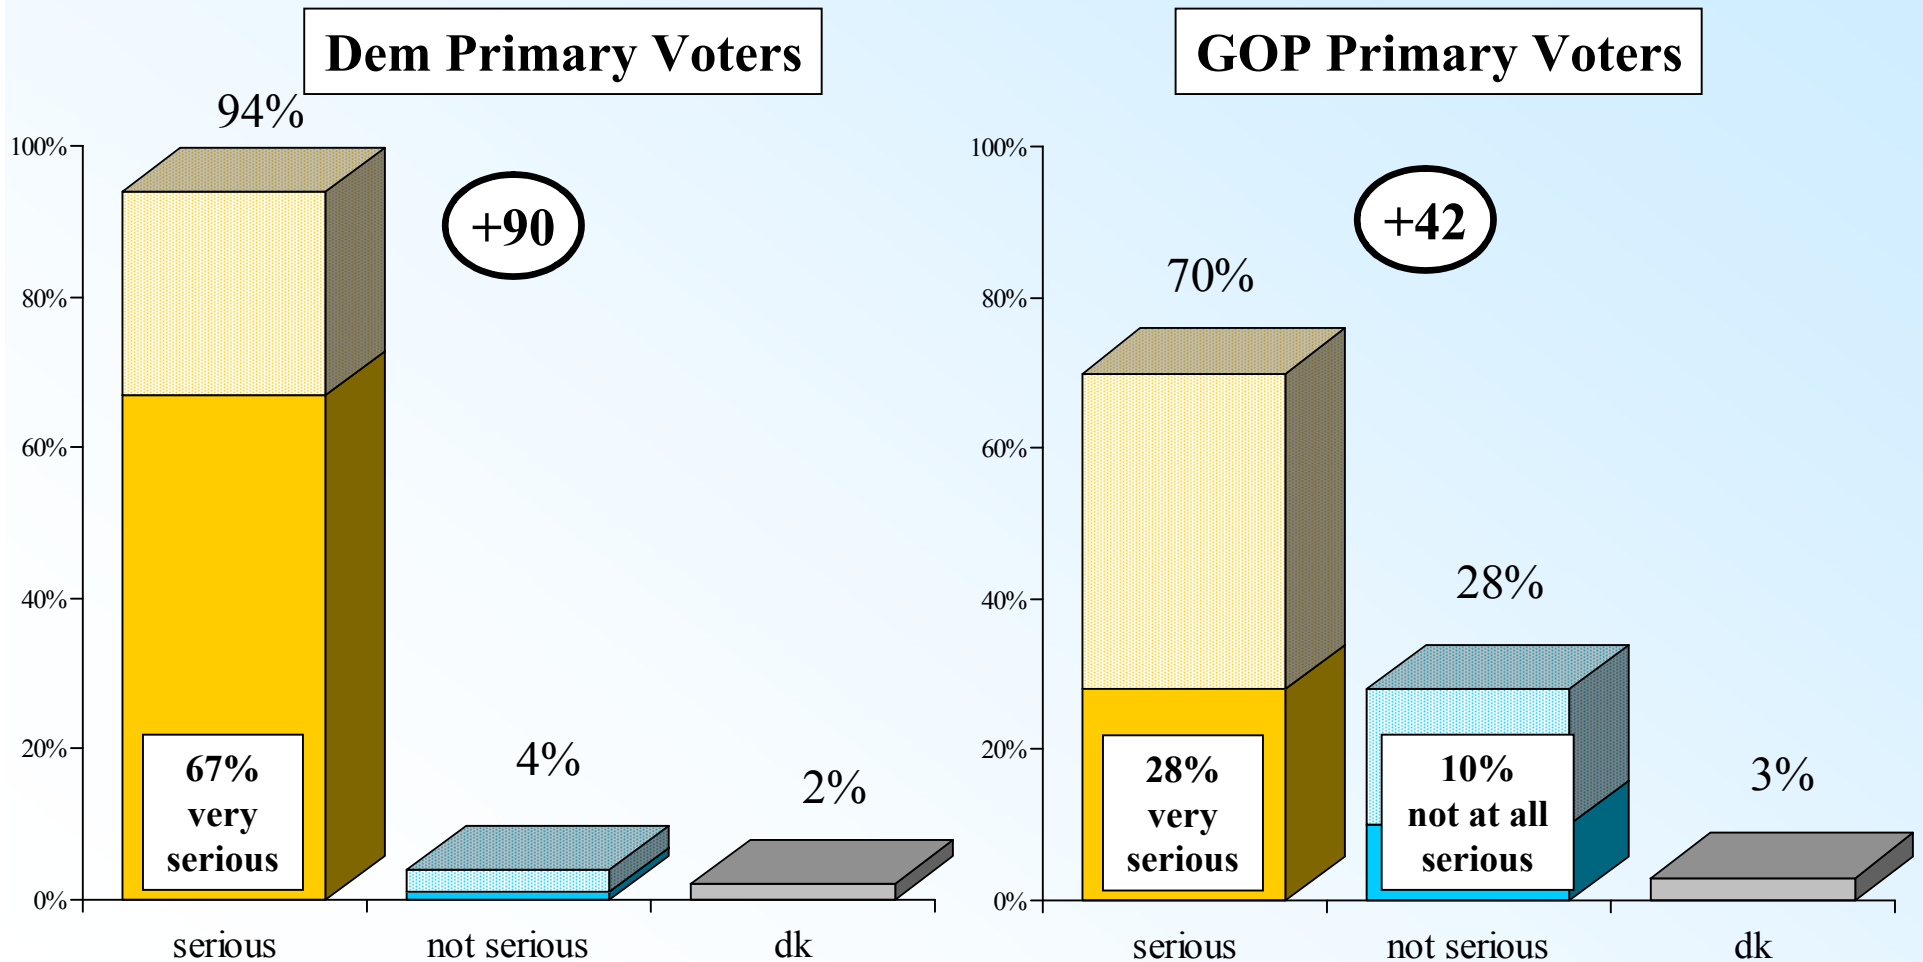

GOP Primary Voters

Majorities Of Both Primary Electorates Think Global Warming Is A Serious Threat, Though Again Democrats Are More Intense And Unanimous

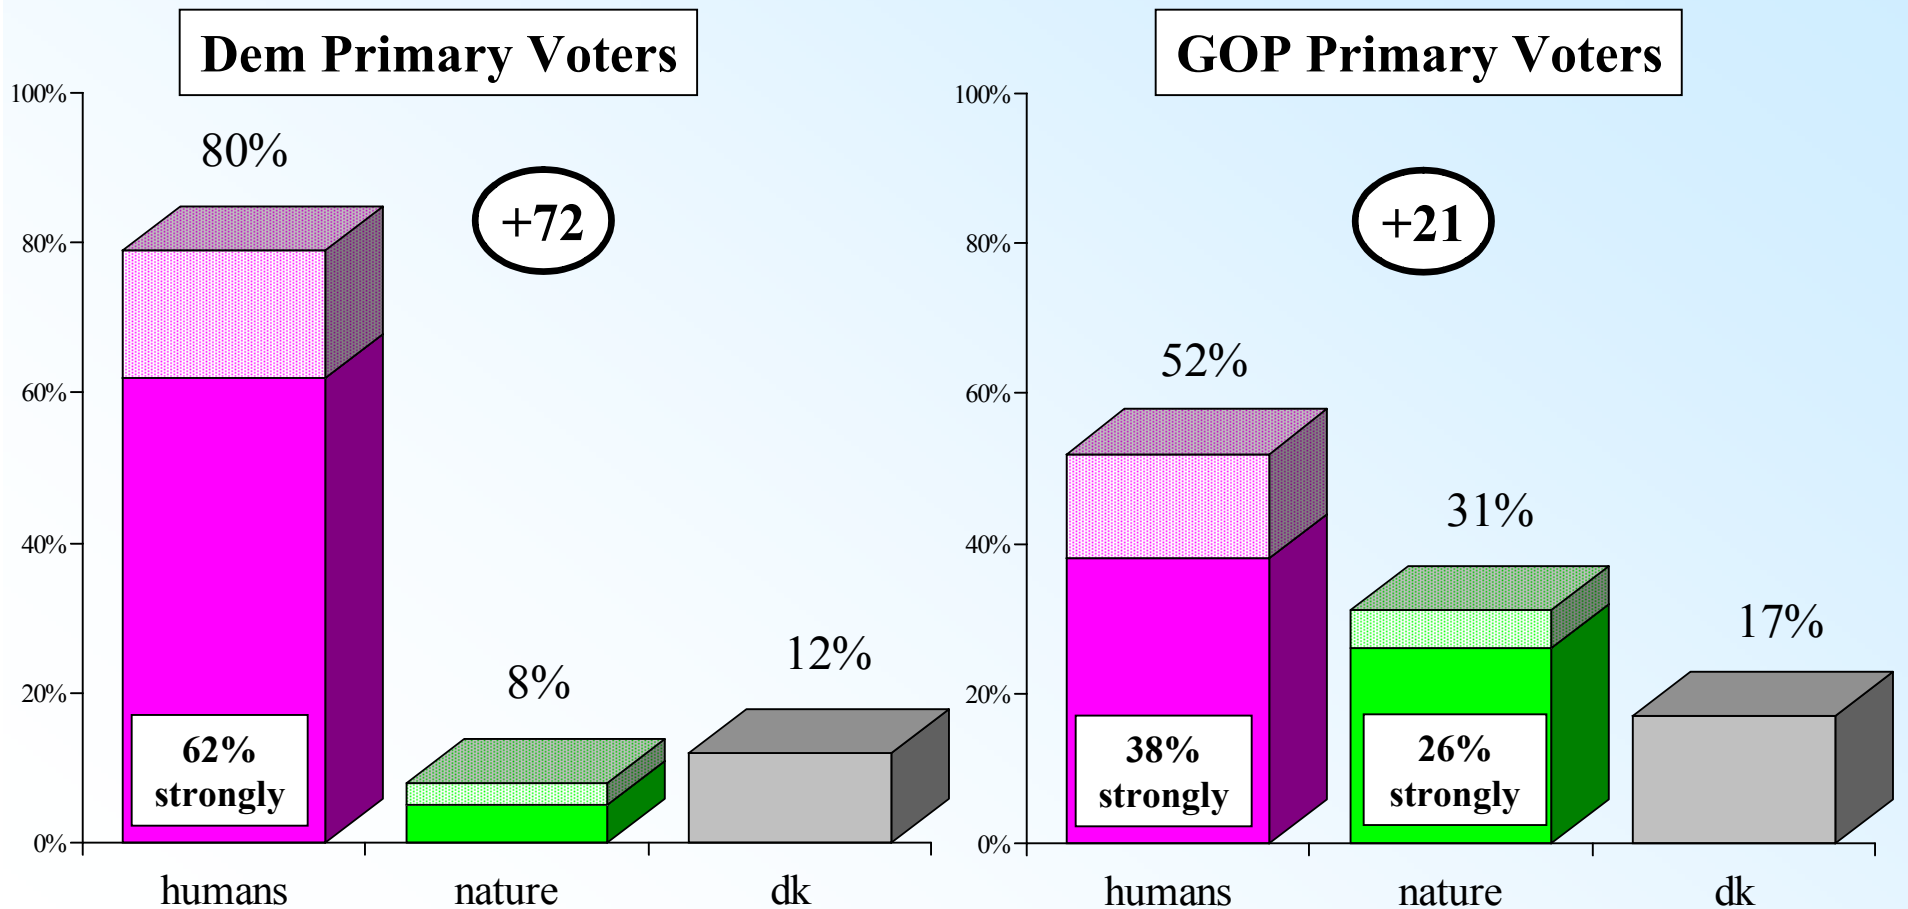

Generally speaking, how serious of a threat do you think global warming is today, very serious, somewhat serious, not too serious, or not serious at all—or don't you have an opinion on this?

Democrats Are United In Seeing Global Warming As A Human Byproduct, A View Shared By A Bare Majority Of Republicans

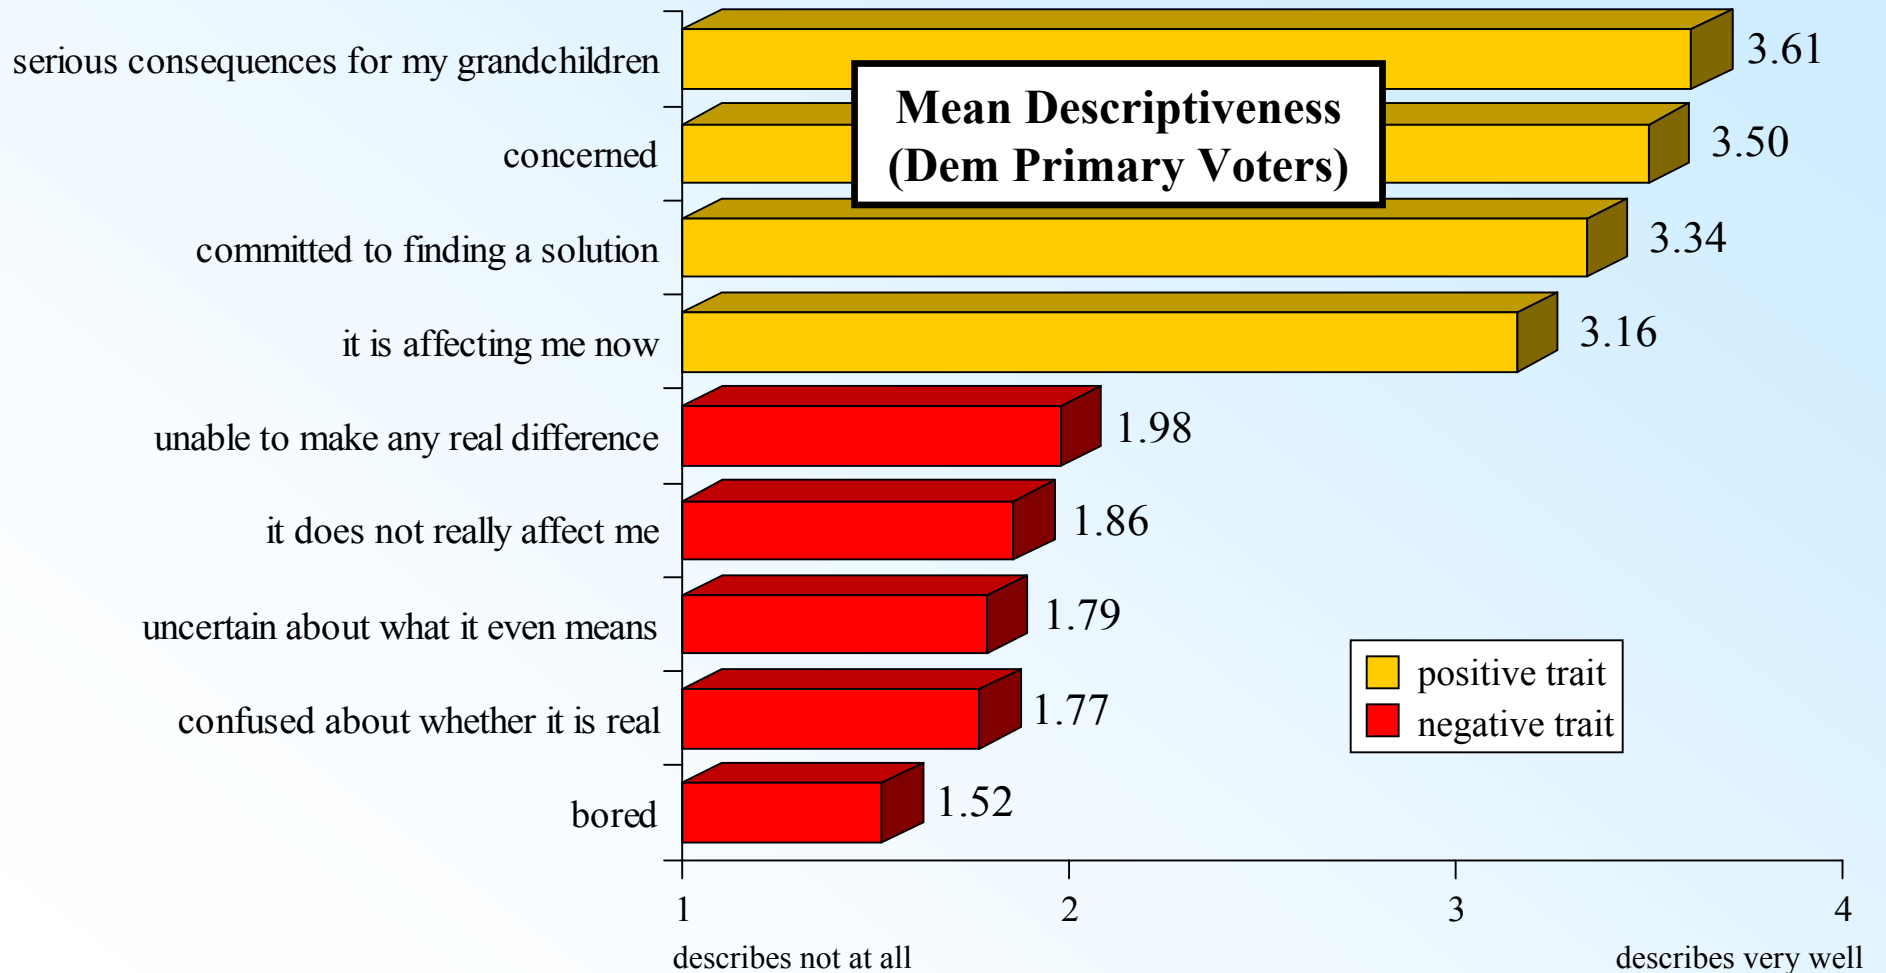

Do you think global warming is mainly the result of human pollution or mainly the result of natural processes?

Voters In Both Electorates View Global Warming As A Real Problem That Directly Affects Them, Which They Are Committed To Solving

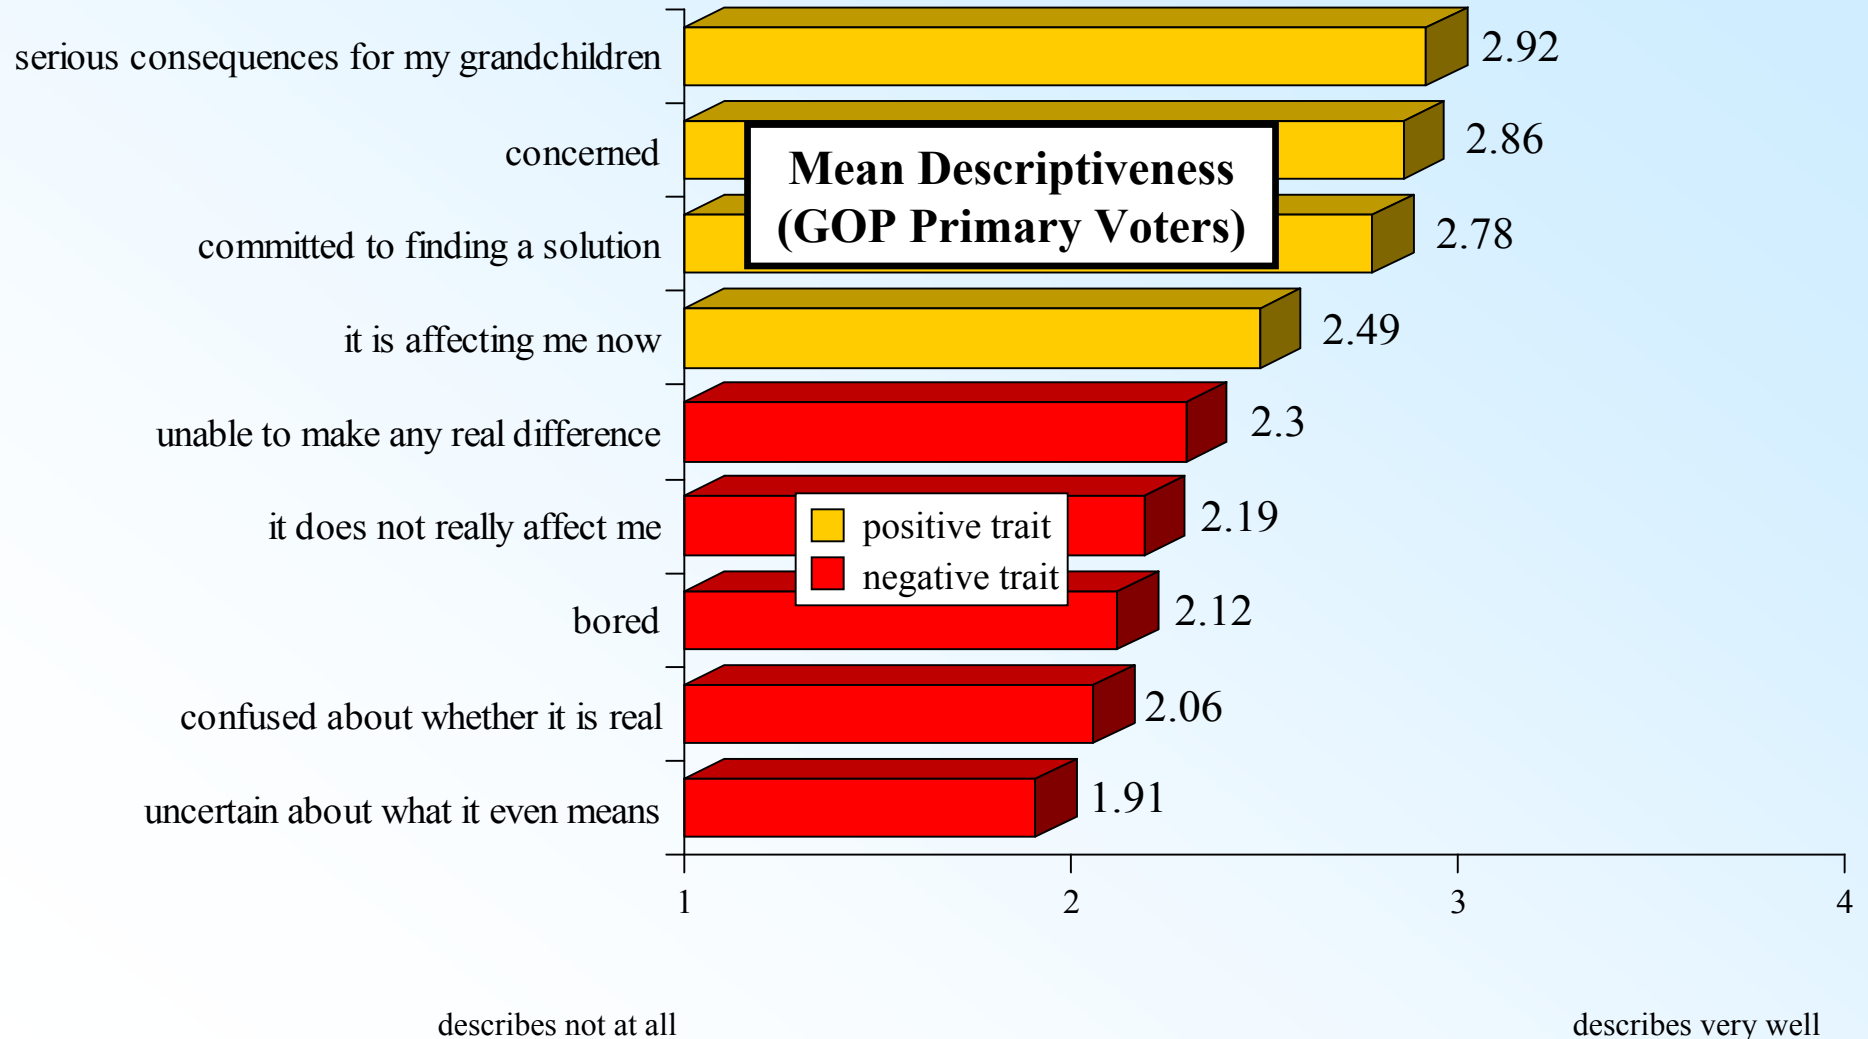

Democratic Primary Voters' Attitudes Toward Global Warming Are Predominantly Concern, Commitment, And Awareness

Republican Primary Voters Have Similar But Much Less Intense Views

Majorities Of Both Primary Electorates
Say It Is Important To Act Now
To Reduce Emissions

Majorities Of Both Primary Electorates Strongly Favor The U.S. Taking Action To Reduce Emissions

Do you favor or oppose the United States taking action to reduce its emissions of gases like carbon dioxide that cause global warming?

Dem Primary Voters

GOP Primary Voters

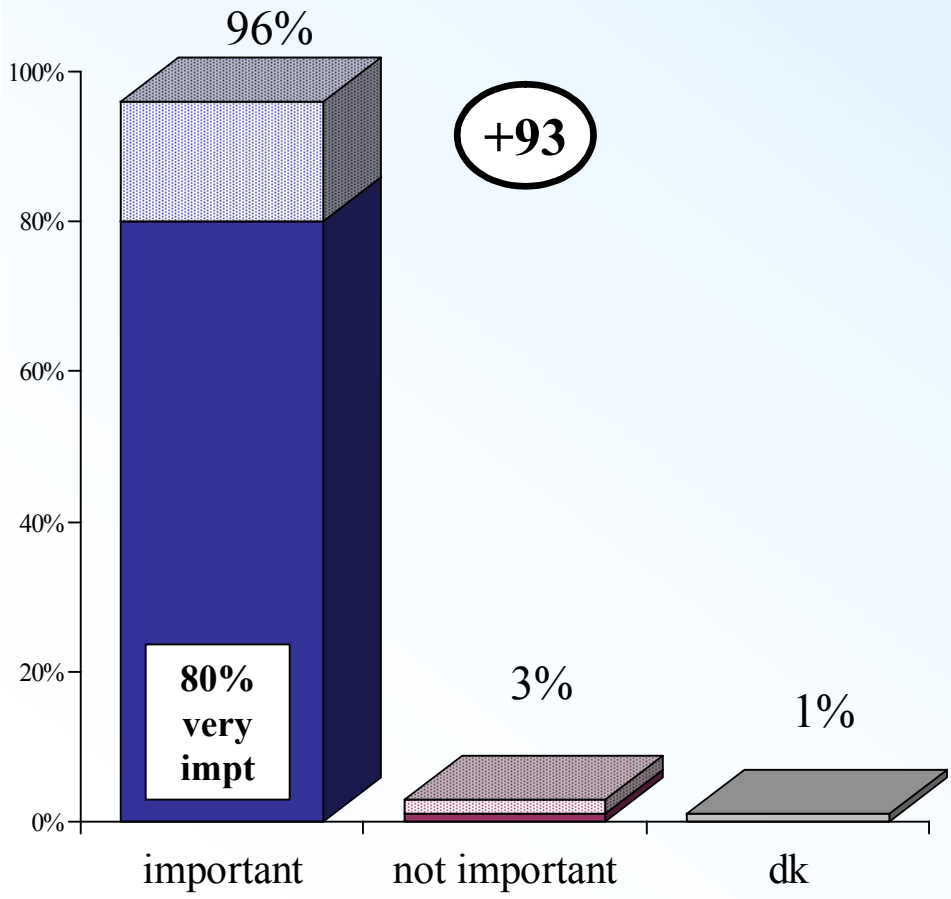

Overwhelming Majorities Of Both Primary Electorates Feel It Is Important To Take Action Now To Reduce Global Warming Emissions Again, Democrats Are More Intense Than GOPers

How important is it for the United States to take action now to reduce its emissions of gases like carbon dioxide that cause global warming?

Dem Primary Voters

GOP Primary Voters

